

A black and white photograph of a diverse group of professionals in an office environment. In the foreground, a man with glasses and a suit jacket has his arms raised in triumph. Behind him, several other individuals, both men and women, are also cheering with their arms raised. They are surrounded by stacks of papers, books, and office equipment, suggesting a busy work environment.

Primera Engineers is a full-service engineering design and consulting firm headquartered in Chicago. We are a firm centered around connections. Beyond connecting with one another, we look for ways to connect each employee with their assignments to foster meaningful work. Whether the project is big or small, we look at each as an opportunity to make an impact.

Work with the brightest minds and the kindest people.

Primera is a people-first company. We're a service organization. Sure, we employ some of the best and brightest in the buildings, transportation, utilities, and consulting spaces, but we are more than a collection of technical experts. We pride ourselves on being the kind of people people want to be around. We are kindness ambassadors. We help one another and like to have fun doing it.

All the structure and flexibility you need to succeed.

Our employees are empowered by a progressive, stimulating environment that inspires both personal and professional growth. Robust onboarding, outlined career paths, and real-time feedback will keep you moving forward, but our lives don't always revolve around work. Primera's flexible scheduling and work-from-home options afford our team the balance we all need and crave.

Big firm opportunities and small firm relationships.

Primera continues to expand our reach into new regions and markets across the U.S. which offers new and exciting opportunities for our people. Our experts work on innovative, high-profile projects in addition to large and small infrastructure improvement projects that are the backbone of our communities. But you won't find a big firm feel. Our success is built on the connections we make. Our passion for people is the same as it was the day we opened our doors.

Our list goes on, but to us what matters most is cultivating a workplace people want to belong to. Make the choice to invest in yourself. Apply today at PrimeraEng.com/careers.

“ I love how multicultural Primera is. Not only does it make for varied opinions and approaches to solving problems, but you learn about each other's backgrounds and perspectives.”

OMAR TORRES, INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

“ I have been working for engineering firms for 20 years. Primera is the first company that made me feel like part of a family and not just an employee number.”
